

ASSIST. INFORM. SUPPORT.

Providing pandemic assistance and support for your employees and their families.

For many people, this will be the first time they've had to adjust to a home-based working arrangement.

Dispersed workforces, lacking their usual structures, face-to-face interaction, and facilities, can find it difficult to settle into a new routine, especially with the added pressure of staying fit and well, round the clock childcare, and the aftermath of global lockdown on travel and leisure plans.

Circles are here to help with taking away workplace and home distractions, allowing the employee to focus on the task at hand and maximise their free time.
